

Kveller-ed

New Mommy-ness

I made a summer “bucket list” about 6 weeks ago. I put things on there that are relatively attainable, i.e. making my own pasta, making my own cheese, transfer the blog to self-hosting. You know, real cool and adventurous stuff like that. One of the items on that list was getting a post published on the Jewish parenting blog, Kveller.com. And today, that happened! It's a super nerdy thing to be excited about, but dang it, I'm gonna be out loud about my excitement. Check out the post by clicking here.